As we confront COVID-19 and adjust to new ways of living and working, Downtown Wichita's top priority remains the health, safety and strength of our community. Please continue to follow the advice and directives of public health officials and practice all safety precautions, not only for your health, but for the collective health of your friends and neighbors.

The Downtown Wichita team is working to find the best solutions to support our local businesses and residents. Please check our website and social media channels (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram) often, as we will continue to update all with current and meaningful information for you to use and share.

We are a community made up of powerful, kind and resilient people. We are indeed facing uncertain times, and the only way to get through the coming months and foreseeable future is together.

If Downtown Wichita can be of any assistance to you or your organization, please send us a message at info@downtownwichita.org. Stay home and take care of yourself, check on a neighbor, and support local by purchasing a gift card or ordering some local takeout.

Resources for Small Businesses

As a resource for those who live, work and play in downtown Wichita, our organization is closely monitoring the COVID-19 pandemic. We are working with partner organizations to provide resources for small businesses and downtown stakeholders. This page will be regularly updated with additional information and opportunities as they become available.

Find additional information and assistance through the Wichita Regional Chamber of Commerce's Wichita Resource Center.

Questions on the resources? Contact Jason Gregory, Executive Vice President of Downtown Wichita via email.
